County Hosts Consecutive Coffee with a Commissioner Community Meetings

Troup County, Ga. February 6, 2020 – Troup County hosted three Coffee with a Commissioner meetings across the county this week in order to provide citizens the opportunity to interact with their district commissioners over coffee and conversation.

Numerous residents from each district in the county attended the meetings to ask questions and share feedback regarding various operations in Troup County. The community meetings were held at LaGrange Active Life, West Point Active Life, and Hogansville Active Life in order to incorporate all residents of Troup County.

During the meetings, members of the community were encouraged to engage with their county commissioners to ask questions, share concerns, and provide feedback in an open forum. “The Board of Commissioners are taking deliberate steps to be more accessible to their constituents, and these informal meetings provide the community direct access to their Commissioners,” said County Manager Eric Mosley.

For those unable to attend the meetings this week, there will be additional opportunities in the future, but citizens are always encouraged to contact the Troup County Board of Commissioners’ Office at (706) 883-1610 or commission@troupc.org for questions and concerns pertaining to the functions of the county.
